"Dialects reflect the general language diversified by localities. A dialect is a variation in the pronunciation, and necessarily in the orthography, of words, or a peculiarity of phrase or idiom, usually accompanied by a tone which seems to be as local as the word it utters. It is a language rarely understood out of the sphere of the population by whom it is appropriated. A language is fixed in a nation by a flourishing metropolis of an extensive empire; a dialect may have existed coeval with that predominant dialect which by accident has become the standard or general language; and, moreover, the continued dialect may occasionally preserve some remains or fragments of the language, which, apparently lost, but hence recovered, enable us rightly to understand even the prevalent idiom.

"It is among our provincial dialects that we discover many beautiful archaisms, scattered remnants of our language, which explain those obscurities of our more ancient writers, singularities of phrase, or lingual peculiarities, which have so often bewildered the most acute of our commentators.... These provincial modes of speech have often actually preserved for us the origin of English phraseology, and enlightened the philologist in a path unexplored.

* * * *

"A language, in the progress of its refinement, loses as well as gains in the amount of words, and the good fortune of expressive phrases. Some become equivocal by changing their signification, and some fall obsolete, one cannot tell why, for custom or caprice arbitrate, guided by no law, and often with an unmusical ear. These discarded but faithful servants, now treated as osteasts, and not even suspected to have any habitation, are safely lodged in some of our dialects. As the people are faithful traditionists, repeating the words of their forefathers, and are the longest to preserve their customs, they are the most certain antiquaries; and their oral knowledge and their ancient observances often elucidate many an archaeological obscurity.

* * * *

"Words are not barbarous nor obsolete because no longer used in our written composition, since some of the most exquisite and picturesque, which have ceased to enrich our writings, live in immortal pages."—DISRAELI (Amenities of Literature).

"I am only anxious to repeat, that we never know how wide a field for speculation and reflection may be opened by the recovery and preservation of a single obscure provincialism; and that in contributing to such an object, we may be preparing the materials for observations on language, far more important than I have in this instance been able to submit to the reader."—SIR E. W. HEAD, Bart. (Classical Museum, No. IV, p. 63).

PREFACE.

THE following Glossary is intended to contain a collection of the Provincial Words and Phrases used in a portion of the county of Durham which extends from Middleton in Teesdale to Darlington. The district selected may be considered as bounded on the east by the river Skern, on the west by the Hudshope Burn, on the north by a line parallel to the course of the river Tees, and distant from it about nine or ten miles, and on the south by the river Tees,* for about thirty miles in its course.

- * "The Muse this largest shire of England having sung,
Yet seeing more than this did to her task belong,
Looks still into the North, the bishopric and views,
Which with an eager eye, whilst wistly she pursues,
Teis as a bordering flood (who thought herself divine),
Confining in her course that county Palatine,
And York, the greatest shire, doth instantly begin
To rouse herself: quoth she, "Doth every rillet win
Applause for their small worths, and I, that am a queen,
With those poor brooks compar'd? Shall I alone be seen
Thus silently to pass, and not be heard to sing?
When as two countries are contending for my spring:
For Cumberland, to which the Cumri gave the name,
Accounts it to be hers, Northumberland the same,
Will need'sly hers should be, for that my spring doth rise,
So equally 'twixt both, that he were very wise,

In the establishment of the Saxon octarchy, the county of Durham was probably included in the kingdom of Deira, the southernmost of the two which are frequently compre-

Could tell which of these two me for her own may claim.
 But as in all these tracts, there's scarce a flood of fame,
 But she some valley hath, which her brave name doth bear;
 My Teisdale nam'd of me, so likewise have I here,
 At my first setting forth, through which I nimbly slide;
 Then Yorkshire which doth lie upon my setting side,
 Me Lune and Bauder lends, as in the song before
 Th' industrious Muse hath show'd: my Dunelmenian shore,
 Sends Huyd to help my course, with some few other becks,
 Which time (as it should seem) so utterly neglects,
 That they are nameless yet; then do I bid adieu
 To Bernard's battled towers, and seriously pursue
 My course to Neptune's court, but as forthright I run,
 The Skern, a dainty nymph, saluting Darlington,
 Comes in to give me aid, and being proud and rank,
 She chanc'd to look aside, and spieth near her bank,
 Three black and horrid pits, which for their boiling heat,
 (That from their loathsome brims do breath a sulphurous sweat)
 Hell kettles rightly call'd, that with the very sight,
 This water-nymph, my Skern, is put in such a fright,
 That with unusual speed she on her course doth haste,
 And rashly runs herself into my widen'd waist,
 In pomp I thus approach great Amphitrite's state."

hended under the general name of Northumberland. Historians, however, are not well agreed as to the exact limits of Deira* and Bernicia.

Hitherto there has been no Glossary of words peculiar to the county of Durham, or any part of it. The manuscript Glossary† of Kennett, in the British Museum, and the Glossaries of Ray, Grose, and Brockett, doubtless comprise this county.

I must not omit to mention a manuscript ‘Collection of Words used in the Bishoprick of Durham and some adjacent Counties,’ in the handwriting of Gray, the poet, which was recently purchased by Peter Cunningham, Esq. It contains 195 words, and was probably furnished to the poet by his friend Dr. Warton.

Ritson also appears to have made a collection of such words. In a letter to his relative, Joseph Frank, Esq., he says: “You must either make use of my collection of Durham words or send me yours. Parson Boucher, vicar of Epsom (who is preparing a glossary of ancient and

* “The British kingdoms of Deyfir and Bryneich (Latinized into Deira and Byrnicia) were divided from each other by a forest, occupying the tract between the Tyne and Tees. This border-land, now the Bishopric of Durham, does not seem originally to have belonged to either kingdom; but in subsequent times the boundary between Deira and Bernicia was usually fixed at the Tyne.”—Palgrave’s History of the Anglo-Saxons.

“Durham was a portion of the Province of Bernicia, which, together with Deira, formed the Anglo-Saxon kingdom of Northumberland, the most cultivated because the most learned of the states into which Saxon England was divided.”—See Preface to Anglo-Saxon Ritual of Durham. See also Bosworth’s Anglo-Saxon Dictionary, p. xvi.

† Lansdown Collection, 1033, 79 f.

local words, which he tells me is in great forwardness), anxiously desires to peruse the Durham words.”*

The principal classes of words included in this Glossary may be thus defined ; (and here I am following and quoting from the author of the ‘ Herefordshire Glossary :’)

1. “ Words used by classical writers, but now obsolete.”
2. “ Words not obsolete, but used only in poetry, or as technical terms.
3. “ Words which are not known to have ever been used in the language of educated persons.”
4. “ Words substantially the same as words current in the language of educated persons, but modified in form. In some cases the provincial form is more ancient than the literary form. In some cases there is a variety of forms, without any indication by which the greater or less antiquity of either can be determined. In other cases the provincial form is a corruption of the literary form, arising from ignorance.”†

It will be readily assumed that many of the words comprised in this Glossary are current as provincialisms in other parts of the county, also in that part of Yorkshire which is separated by the Tees from the district here selected, and in other parts of England.‡

Many words are inserted herein which are found in the last edition of Johnson's Dictionary, and also in that of Webster. Of these, some occur in our old writers, yet are no longer standard words in composition; as "Trail," which is found with its present signification in Milton, Dryden, and Pope.

The words contained in this collection were all in use in the present century, though some of them, indeed, have now become obsolete, or nearly so; e. g. the word "chirm," which Webster says is not in use.

It may be objected that I have inserted several words which are not provincialisms at all, such as coping-stone, crate, croft, cote, &c. My answer is, that such words are not in general use, either written or spoken. There is no reference to any modern writers, in either Johnson or Webster, under any of the above-mentioned words, with one exception. The word "crate" is used by Dr. Johnson in the 'Journey to the Hebrides.'

I have introduced into this work some descriptions of local customs, sports, and pastimes, which may tend to rescue from oblivion these fast-perishing relics of a bygone period.

Some excuse may be expected for my attempting a Glossary of a small district which is comprised in the much larger extent of country to which Mr. Brockett's Glossary refers. It appeared to me that by a careful investigation of the dialect of a limited district, with which I was once well acquainted, I should render a greater service towards the illustration of our language than if I had taken a wider range:

"Alius enim alio plura invenire potest, nemo omnia."*

* Ausonius.

It is certainly by no means satisfactory to be told that a particular word is used in "Yorkshire," or "the North." There are hundreds of words in the 'Craven Glossary' which are not found in Brockett's 'Glossary of North-country Words.' In the 'Promptorium Parvulorum,' vol. i, p. 221, note 4, it is stated, on the authority of Kennett, "that in 'Yorkshire,' for Geè oo, the carters say Hite and Reè." These last words are not, I believe, known in that part of Yorkshire which borders on the Tees, though I am not prepared to say that they are not known in some part of that large county.

So, again, in the 'Promp. Par.,' vol. i, p. 238, n. 1, we read that "a hank of yarn is called in the 'North' a hesp or hasp." In no part of the North with which I am acquainted is this the case. Turning to p. 240, n. 1, we find it asserted, on Kennett's authority, that "Thatchers in 'Yorkshire' are called Helliars." I have never heard the term, and I am well acquainted with a great portion of that county. At p. 288, n. 1, it is stated, on the authority of Brockett, that "in the 'North,' cold and moist weather, when it does not actually rain, is called lasche." This, too, is a term which is altogether new to me.

It must be evident, however, that such general references must, by their vagueness, necessarily lead to erroneous conclusions, and cannot form a safe and correct guide for philological or historical investigation.

In the limited district which I have selected, though a general similarity of dialect prevails, yet to the west of Eggleston the pronunciation differs considerably, and terms are used which are not known in the lower part of Teesdale. Thus, we find easen for east, wessen for west, coad for cold, skifting for shifting, kirk for church, &c.

I have adopted such a spelling as will convey, as nearly as may be, the true pronunciation, even to persons to whom the words are not familiar. In the word fauf, and some other words, I have, in this respect, ventured to differ from Mr. Brockett.*

Although I have availed myself of the labours of others, and more especially of the author of the 'Craven Dialect,' yet I have inserted no word without carefully considering whether it belonged to the district, nor have I given any definition without being satisfied of its correctness.

Lastly, let me add, that on commencing this collection I had not the least intention of ever publishing it.

* I have consulted the Second Edition of Mr. Brockett's Glossary, but have made no references to it. The Third Edition I have never seen.

TEESDALE GLOSSARY.

A. This letter is retained in the phraseology of Teesdale, and other parts of the north of England, where modern English substitutes o ; as awn, own ; lang, long, &c.

A, B, C. These three letters are used to designate the entire alphabet, when it is spoken of to children.

“ Their Latin names as fast he rattles,
As A, B, C.”

Burns's Works, ii, p. 73.

They seem to be used by Shakspeare to mean the first book : see King John, act i, sc. 1 ; also Two Gentlemen of Verona, act ii, sc. 1.

By the statutes of foundation of some of the grammar schools in the 16th century, the master is required to instruct the boys “ in their A, B, C, and other English books.” It is clear, therefore, that the A, B, C formerly meant a book, and indeed it is often mentioned along with another book, the Primer. See Judgment of Lord Eldon, in Attorney-General v. Earl of Mansfield.—Russell's Reports, ii, 501.

A book has been recently published in Germany, entitled ‘ A, B, C, für kleine und grosse Kinder.’

ABACK, prep. Behind ; as, stand aback o' me.

ABACK A BEHINT, adv. Behindhand, too late.

- ABLE, a. Possessed of large pecuniary means. Her.
 ABOON, prep. and adv. Above, beyond, or more than.
W. and C.
 ABREED, adv. Spread out. A. S. abredian.
 ABUNE, prep. and adv. Above.
 AC-RUN, n. Acorn. A. S. æcern.
 ADDLE, v. To earn; as to earn wages. A. S. ædlean, a reward. Car.
 ADDLINS, n. Earnings. Car., W. and C., Willb.
 ADGE, n. Adze. Car.
 AFIELD, adv. To the field.
 AFORE, prep. and adv. Before. Car.
 AFORE-LANG, adv. Ere long. Car.
 AGANE, prep. Against; "agane [i. e. the time] he comes hame." For.
 AGE, v. To grow old, showing perceptibly the marks of age. Car., For.
 AGEE, a. Awry, crooked. Jam., Car., W. and C., Willb.
 AGREEABLE, a. Willing, compliant. Car., For., Willb.
 AIK, n. The oak. The vulgar pronunciation is more correctly given by Yak. A. S. ac. GERM. eiche. DUT. eik.
 AIRLY, a. Early.
 AIRNEST, a. Earnest.
 AIRT, n. The point from which the wind blows. Jam.,
Car.

"Of a' the airts the wind can blaw,
 I dearly like the west."

Scot. Museum, iii, 244. Burns, iv, 137.

- AIRT NOR PART. "Neither airt nor part," in no way concerned with, or accessory to. See Percy's Reliques, vol. ii, p. 227. Jam.
 AITHER, a. and pro. Either.
 AKWARD, a. Awkward. When a sheep is on its back, and not able to rise, it is said to be "laid akward."

A'L, I will. W. and C.

ALANE, a. Alone. Dut. alleen. Car., W. and C.

ALANG, adv. Along. W. and C.

ALIBLASTER, n. Alabaster. Car., W. and C.

ALL-ALONG-OF, prep. Entirely owing to. Car., II.

ALLEY, n. A marble made of alabaster or stone. For.

ALLEY, n. At the end of the game of football, shinny, &c., the ball must pass a certain line or mark, which is called the alley.

ALL MY EYE AND BETTY MARTIN, A familiar expression used to show that, as regards some particular transaction, there has been some deceit, imposition, or pretence. It is thought to have had its origin in the beginning of the old Romish hymn—

“O! mihi, beate Martine!”

ALL-O'-BITS, All in pieces, broken. Car.

AMAIST, adv. Almost. A. S. ealmaest. Jam.

AMANG, prep. Among. A. S. amang. W. and C.

ANANTERS, prep. In the event of. Car.

ANE, a. One. Jam. The common pronunciation is best conveyed by yan.

AN-END, adv. Onwards. For.

ANENST, prep. Opposite to. Used by Chaucer and Ben Jonson. W. and C. Willb.

ANEW, a., pl. of enough. Jam.

ANGRY, a. Inflamed, as used in reference to a wound or sore. For.

ANPARSY, Meaning the character & (and per se).

This character & is of Latin origin properly, being a combination of e and t. See Car.; also For. under Ampeasant and Anpasty. His derivation and past y is most improbable.

ANTICS, n. Odd gesticulations, tricks.

APIECE, adv. Individually; as, a shilling apiece.

APRIL-FOOL-DAY, The first of April, on which day it is customary to practise some harmless deception, and thereby make "April fools." See Hone's E. D. B., i, p. 409; Brand's Pop. Ant. i, p. 76. John.

AP-RON, n. Apron, pronounced as if spelt ap-ron. See Web.

ARFISH, a. Afraid.

ARRAN-WEB, n. Spider's web. LAT. aranea. Car.

ARRANTEST, a. Veriest. asid by 8 onson

ASK, n. A newt, or small lizard. Jam.

ASS, v. To ask. Jam., Car.

ASS, n. Ashes. Car. A. S. asce. GERM. asche. Sometimes used in the plural form.

ASSEER, v. Assure.

ASSLE-TREE, n. An axle-tree. LAT. axis. FR. asseul.

ITAL. assile. Jam., Car.

ASSLE-TOOTH, n. A grinder: dens molaris. Car.

ASS-MIDDEN, n. The heap into which ashes are collected. Car.

AST, p. p. Asked. Car.

ASTITE, adv. As soon as, in preference. As-tide, whence Whitsun-tide A. S. tid. Car.

ASWIN, adv. Obliquely. WELSH, asswyn. Car. - Fiv. 5.

A-TOP, adv. Upon. Car. - Fiv. 5.

ATWEAH, adv. "Brak't atweah," broke it into two.

AUD, a. Old. A. S. eald. Car., W. and C.

AUD-FARRANT, a. Applied to children that are peculiarly grave, old-fashioned, or formal. Sometimes, but less frequently applied to those who show ability and sagacity beyond their years. See Aud-farran, in Jam., Wil.

AUD-PEG, n. Old-milk cheese.

AUM, n. An elm-tree. Car.

AUP, n. A mischievous child. Car.

AW, pro. The vulgar pronunciation of I; as, aw's, I am, aw's gang, I shall go.

AWAY WITH, For the most part used negatively ; I cannot away with, i. e. I cannot endure.

This phrase was in use in the time of Queen Elizabeth.

See Web. I find it used in the Quarterly Review, vol. 74, p. 391.

AWE, v. To owe.

AWE, v. To own, possess ; as, wheah's awe this hat ? who owns this hat ? See Shaksp. Othello, act iii, sc. 3.

AWLS, n. To pack up his awls, is spoken of a person departing in haste.

AWN, v. To own. A. S. agan.

AWN, n. Own. Car., W. and C.

AWNER, n. Owner. W. and C.

AX, v. To ask. A. S. axian. Casaubon derives this word from αξιωω, postulo. Car.

AX'D AT CHURCH, A phrase applied to the publication of marriage-banns. Jam., Car.

AX'D OUT, Refers to the third and last publication of banns.

BABBY, n. A young child. It is used also for a doll ; and in the plural to denote prints, when shown to children for their amusement. Car.

"High crown'd he sits in dawning pale,
The sovereign of the lovely vale."

Scott's Rokeby, c. ii, st. 1.

BARRING-OUT, A custom in some of the smaller schools in the north. At the eve of the holidays the school door is closed on the master on his arrival; a parley ensues between the master and the senior boys; and the result is, that extra holiday is granted, with, probably, exemption from the usual task. I do not recollect witnessing this custom, but I perfectly well remember another school custom, on the day of "breaking up" for the holidays. A small subscription is entered into, and a mixture made of ale, sweetened and seasoned so as to be agreeable to juvenile palates. The song or glee is then introduced. Some now living may recollect such a festivity on one or two occasions, at the school of a clergyman at Staindrop, about thirty-five years ago.

A similar custom of barring-out seems to have prevailed in Cumberland and Westmoreland. See W. and C. Glossary. Gent.'s Mag. vol. 61, p. 1170. See also Hone's Y. B. pp. 152, 1306. Brand's Pop. Ant. i, p. 45.

CHASE, n. A receptacle for deer and game; of a middle nature, between a forest and a park, being commonly less than a forest, and not endued with so many liberties, and yet of a larger compass, and stored with greater diversity of game than a park. A chase differs from a forest in this—that it may be in the hands of a subject, which a forest, in its proper nature, cannot; and from a park, in that it is not inclosed; and also in that a man may have a chase in another man’s ground as well as in his own, having, indeed, the liberty of keeping beasts of chase or royal game therein, protected even from the owner of the land, with a power of hunting them thereon.

“He and his lady both are at the lodge,

Upon the north side of this pleasant chase.

Sh., Tit. And. ii, 4.

This word is introduced here from its being still occasionally used as the designation of the district of Marwood, which was once a chase attached to Barnard Castle, extending along the Durham side of the Tees, westward.

“But sure, no rigid jailer, thou

Wilt a short prison-walk allow,

Where summer flowers grow wild at will,

On Marwood Chase and Toller Hill.”

Scott’s Rokeby, canto v, 12.

CHATTER’D, a. A term applied to a fracture in wood.

CHEESES, n. The seeds of the common mallow are so called by children.

CLUVES, n. The hoofs of cattle and pigs. W. and C.

COB, v. Applied to the pulling the hair of a boy, as a punishment inflicted by his schoolfellows for the commission of a mean though sinless offence. During the punishment, the castigators, each holding the culprit by a lock of his hair, are compelled to stand on one leg while some one pronounces a sort of proclamation, in verse, remarkable neither for its poetry nor decency; the condition imposed by it being, that whoever does not assist in the punishment, shall himself undergo a similar one. The commencement is—

“A rannel, a rannel, a grey güse horn.”

* * * * *

The ceremony concludes by each boy spitting over the head of the offender, who, upon whistling, is entitled to be released. The above nearly corresponds with the description given under the word randle, by Car. The punishment of cobbing, differing in many respects from the above, is practised in some parts of Scotland. See Jamieson.

COBBLE-STANE, n. A large smooth stone of a roundish shape. Web., Car.

DUZZY, a. Dizzy. GERM. dusel, dizziness. For.

D'YAM, n. Dame, the mistress of the house. This word is now nearly obsolete in this sense: it was, in the last century, in very general use in the households of the farmers, and the class now designated gentlemen farmers. In those times "t'maister and t'd'yam" took their meals together with their household servants.

In this sense the word occurs in the following song :

“ Come, bring with a noise,
My merrie, merrie boyes,
The Christmas log to the firing :
While my good dame, she
Bids ye all be free,
And drink to your heart’s desiring.”

Herrick.

So also in the following passage :

Shep. “ Fye, daughter ! when my old wife liv’d, upon
This day, she was both pantler, butler, cook ;
Both dame and servant : welcom’d all : serv’d all :
Would sing her song, and dance her turn : now here,
At upper end o’ the table, now, i’ the middle ;
On his shoulder, and his.”

Shak., Winter’s Tale, act iv, sc. 3.

EASINGS, n. The eaves of a house. Car. (1), H., Lanc., Wilb.

EASTER SUNDAY. An old custom prevails on this day.
Young men take off the shoes of the girls, for which a ransom must be given. On the following day (Easter Monday) the girls take off the men’s hats. The custom is now all but obsolete.

This custom seems to bear some analogy to that of “heaving” or “lifting” which prevails in Lancashire, Staffordshire, Warwickshire, and other parts of England.

See Brand's P. A. i. 106-7; Hone's E. D. B. i, 422, &c.

Another custom seems to have prevailed at this season; on Easter Monday the women used to tie a rope across a road, and by this device, or otherwise, they procured money, which they afterwards spent in tea-drinking and tansey-cake, and if the proceeds would admit of it, something more exhilarating. This custom seems to be related to that of Hock-tide, a fortnight after Easter. See Brand's P. A. i, 112.

ECCLE, v. Of same meaning as ettle, though very rarely used.

NEW-FANGLED, a. A change in any particular thing, or in the mode or method of doing any particular act or thing. On trimming up what is usually called the “fore kitchen” in old farmhouses, and making it into a smart parlour, the old wives would cry out against such new-fangled ways and notions.

The word has also another meaning, as when applied to a child who has got a new plaything, toy, or watch.

“At Christmas I no more desire a rose,
Than wish a snow in May’s new-fangled shows;
But like of each thing that in season grows.”

Shaks. Love’s Labour’s Lost, i, 1.

See also Shaks. As You Like It, iv. 1.

NIP, v. To pinch.

NIVVER, adv. Never. W. and C.

NON, A word used by a person who has not heard distinctly what has been addressed to him. In some places, nan, anon, anan, annan, are used in the same sense.

In Cornwall, Dr. E. D. Clarke made some inquiries of an old woman, whose abrupt and brief reply was—"Nan." Dr. Clarke imagined she was calling out to some woman of that name, and no one appearing, he himself bawled out in a louder tone—"Nan." It was afterwards explained to him that nan was a contraction of anan, i. e. "what do you say?"—Tour through England, by Dr. E. D. Clarke, p. 117. See Bar., Bou., Car., For., Her., Jen., Willb.

NOBBUT, adv. Only; a contraction of none but. Car., H., Willb.

Or else to seek her morn and e'en,"

Scott's P. W. ii, p. 353.

Car., W. and C.

OVER: To give over, means "to cease from."

OWE, v. "Whose owe it?" i. e. who owns it?

The meaning of this verb, namely, to possess, to be the right owner of, is now obsolete, except in provincial phraseology, and in place of it we now use own. See Shaks. Rich. III, iv, 4; Temp. i, 2; Othello, iii, 3; Sonnets, lxx, l. 14.

The use of the word in this sense is not peculiar to Shakespeare, but is very common in all the old writers. See Beaumont and Fletcher's Beggar's Bush, ii, 1. Car.

OWER, prep. and adv. Over. "Ower mony," too many. A. S. ofer.

OWER-TUNE, n. The burden of a song, corresponding to overword in a Scotch ballad.

RIDDLE AND SHEARS: A mode of divination for the discovery of theft. This superstition is now nearly obsolete. See an account of the process in Jamieson's Supplement, p. 297.

“This custom must have been very ancient. Theocritus speaks of it as quite common in his time, particularly as a mode of divination in regard to the success of love.

‘To Agrio, too, I made the same demand,
 A cunning woman she, I crost her hand;
 She turn’d the sieve and shears, and told me true,
 That I should love, but not be lov’d by you.’

Idyll. 3 (Creech's Translation).

Lucian also speaks of divining by a sieve (κοσκινου παντενόμερος) as a common practice in his time. Pseudomantis, Op. i, 753.” Fosbroke's En. of Ant.

ROBIN, n. The familiar name for the redbreast.

“Ruddock” is a name given by Chaucer, Spenser, and Shakespeare.

This bird has always been a favorite with the poets.

“No burial this pretty babe
Of any man receives,
But robin redbreast painfully
Did cover him with leaves.”

Children in the Wood.

See Spectator, No. 58.

“To relish a love-song like a robin redbreast.”

Shaks. Two Gent. of Ver. ii, 1.

. the ruddock would,
With charitable bill,—bring thee all this;
Yea, and furr’d moss besides.”

Shaks. Cymb. iv, 2.

Dr. Percy asks: “Is this an allusion to the Babes of the Wood, or was the notion of the redbreast covering dead bodies general before the writing of that ballad?”

There is every reason to believe that this notion is an old popular belief.

“The robin redbreast, if he find a man or woman dead, will cover all his face with mosse ; and some think that if the body should remaine unburied that he would cover the whole body also.”—Cornucopia, by Thos. Johnson, 1596.

“Call for the robin redbreast and the wren,
Since o’er shady groves they hover,
And with leaves and flowers do cover
The friendless bodies of unburied men.”

Webster’s White Devil (Dyce’s Ed. 1830, vol. i, p. 146).

“Covering with moss the dead’s unclosed eye,
The little redbreast teacheth charitie.”

Drayton’s Owl.

“Robin the mean, that best of all loves men.”

Browne.

“Sweet Amarillis, by a spring’s
Soft and soule-melting murmurings,
Slept : and thus sleeping thither flew
A robin redbreast ; who at view,
Not seeing her at all to stir,
Brought leaves and mosse to cover her.”

Herrick’s Hesperides, p. 49.

“The honest robin, that loves mankind both dead and alive.”

Isaac Walton.

“The robin redbreast, till of late had rest,
And children sacred held a martin’s nest.”

Pope.

“The redbreast, sacred to the household gods,
Pays to trusted man his annual visit.”

Thomson.

“There scattered oft, the earliest of the year,
By hands unseen, are showers of violets found :
The redbreast loves to build and warble there,
And little footsteps lightly print the ground.”

Gray’s Elegy (omitted stanza).

“The redbreast oft at evening hours
 Shall kindly lend his little aid,
 With hoary moss and gathered flowers,
 To deck the ground where thou art laid.”

Collins, Dirge in Cymbeline.

SWORD-DANCERS, n. pl. The sword-dance is performed at Christmas by about half a dozen young men, carrying a kind of sword like a foil, and dressed in shirts, as the upper part of their outward dress, ornamented with ribands. They are accompanied by a clown, who is dressed very grotesquely, and carries a large watchman's rattle ; also, by a fiddler in ordinary dress. During the dance certain rhymes are sung, and they afterwards receive money, and sometimes, also, refreshment. The following song was formerly sung ;

When good King Arthur ruled his land,

He was a gracious king,

He bought three pecks of barleymeal,

To make a bag pudding.

A bag pudding the king did make,

And stuff'd it well with plumbs ;

And in it put great lumps of fat,

As big as my two thumbs.

The king and queen did eat thereof,

And all the court beside,

And what they could not eat that night,

They had next morning fried.

See Halliwell's Nursery Rhymes, 1844 ; also an Article on "Sword Dancing," in Sir Cuthbert Sharp's Bishoprick Garland. This article is in Richardson's Table Book, i, 209 (Leg. Div.) Some of the verses at p. 211 used to be sung in this district.

In the Scotch ballad of 'Johnny Lad,' there are two stanzas but slightly differing from those formerly sung. See Buchan's Ancient Ballads, vol. ii, p. 153. See also Clarkson's History of Richmond, 4to, p. 290; Hone's Year Book, p. 57.

Many now living will remember the eccentric Fiddler Wilson, of Cockfield, who frequently accompanied the Staindrop sword-dancers. "He was a native of Cockfield, near Staindrop, where his father carried on business as a master mason. Having received a liberal education, he was ordained for the church, and resided for some years in the North of England as a curate, never having obtained superior preferment. He was twice married, but "too much learning had made him mad," and he returned to his native place, where he resided till his death (in 1842), on the property left him by his father. A lady, resident in this city, remembers having heard Mr. Wilson preach in Morpeth church upwards of forty years ago."—Durham Advertiser, 1842.

The sword-dance, said to be an ancient Scandinavian amusement, lingered till a recent period in Shetland. The rhymes connected with its performance bore a considerable resemblance to those of the rude and grotesque drama called Galatian, which, in lowland Scotland, is performed by the Guizards on the evenings of Christmas Day, Hogmany, New Year's Day, and Hlandsel Monday.

The following verses used to be sung :

“ God bless the master of this house,
And mistress also,
And all the little children
That round the table go ;

And all your kith and kindred,
That dwell both far and near;
I wish you a merry Christmas,
And a happy new year."

"I come not to your house to beg nor to borrow,
But I come to your house to drive away all sorrow."

* * * *

The annexed verse differs slightly from the above :

"God bless the ruler of this house,
With great prosperity,
And many a merry Christmas
May he live again to see,
Amongst his friends and kindred,
That live both far and near,
And God send us all a happy new year."

Rimbault's Christmas Carols, p. 27, v. 9.

The lines following are sung in the old drama, called Galatian, performed by Guizardes, in Scotland, at Christmas :

"Blessed be the master of this house, and the mistress also,
And all the little babies that round the table grow;
Their pockets full of money, the bottles full of beer—
A merry Christmas, guizardes, and a happy new year."

"It was usual some years ago for the poorer people to go from door to door with a wassail-cup adorned with ribbons, and a gold apple at the top, singing, and begging money for it: the original of which was, that they also might procure lamb's wool to fill it, and regale themselves as well as the rich."

Philology and Early English Literature.

A Dictionary of Archaic and Provincial Words, Obsolete Phrases, Proverbs, and Ancient Customs, from the Reign of Edward I. by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, F.R.S., F.S.A., &c. 2 vols. 8vo. containing upwards of 1000 pages, closely printed in double columns, cloth, £2. 2s

This work, which has occupied the Editor some years, is now completed; it contains above 50,000 words (embodying all the known scattered glossaries of the English language) forming a complete key for the reader of the works of our old Poets, Dramatists, Theologians, and other authors whose works abound with allusions, of which explanations are not to be found in ordinary Dictionaries and books of reference. Most of the principal Archaisms are illustrated by examples selected from early inedited MSS. and rare books, and by far the greater portion will be found to be original authorities.

Guide to the Anglo-Saxon Tongue: on the Basis of Professor Rask's Grammar, to which are added Reading Lessons in Verse and Prose, with Notes for the use of Learners, by E. J. VERNON, B.A., Oxon. 12mo. cloth, 5s 6d

"The author of this Guide seems to have made one step in the right direction, by compiling what may be pronounced the best work on the subject hitherto published in England."—Athenæum.

"Mr. Vernon has, we think, acted wisely in taking Rask for his model; but let no one suppose from the title that the book is merely a compilation from the work of that philologist. The accidence is abridged from Rask, with constant revision, correction, and modification; but the syntax, a most important portion of the book, is original, and is compiled with great care and skill; and the latter half of the volume consists of a well-chosen selection of extracts from Anglo-Saxon writers, in prose and verse, for the practice of the student, who will find great assistance in reading them from the grammatical notes with which they are accompanied, and from the glossary which follows them. This volume, well studied, will enable any one to read with ease the generality of Anglo-Saxon writers; and its cheapness places it within the reach of every class. It has our hearty recommendation."—Literary Gazette.

The Anglo-Saxon Version of the Life of St. Guthlac, Hermit of Croyland. Printed for the first time, from a MS. in the Cottonian Library, with a Translation and Notes by CHARLES WYCLIFFE GOODWIN, M.A., Fellow of Catharine Hall, Cambridge, 12mo. cloth, 5s

An Introduction to Anglo-Saxon Reading; comprising Ælfric's Homily on the Birthday of St. Gregory, with a copious Glossary, &c. by L. LANGLEY, F.L.S. 12mo. cloth, 2s 6d

Compendious Anglo-Saxon and English Dictionary, by the Rev. JOSEPH BOSWORTH, D.D., F.R.S., F.S.A., &c. 8vo. closely printed in treble columns, cloth, 12s

This may be considered quite a new work from the author's former Dictionary: it has been entirely remodelled and enlarged, bringing it down to the present state of Anglo-Saxon literature both at home and abroad.

Reliquiæ Antiquæ.—Scraps from Ancient Manuscripts, illustrating chiefly Early English Literature, and the English Language, edited by WRIGHT and HALLIWELL, 2 vols. 8vo. cloth, £2. 2s—reduced to £1. 4s

Containing communications by Ellis, Madden, Hunter, Bruce, Turnbull, Laing, Nichols, &c. But very few copies remain. Odd numbers may be had to complete sets at 2s. each.

It contains a large number of pieces in Anglo-Saxon, Anglo-Norman, and Early English; it will be found of use to future Philologists, and to all who take an interest in the history of our language and literature.

Popular Treatises on Science, written during the Middle Ages, in Anglo-Saxon, Anglo-Norman, and English, 8vo. edited by THOS. WRIGHT, cloth, 3s

Contents:—An Anglo-Saxon Treatise on Astronomy of the TENTH CENTURY, now first published from a MS. in the British Museum, with a translation; Livre des Créatures by Philippe de Thaun, now first printed with a translation, (extremely valuable to the Philologist, as being the earliest specimens of Anglo-Norman remaining, and explanatory of all the symbolical signs in early sculpture and painting); the Bestiary of Philippe de Thaun, with a translation; Fragments on Popular Science from the Early English Metrical Lives of the Saints, (the earliest piece of the kind in the English language.)

Anecdota Literaria: A Collection of Short Poems in English, Latin, and French, illustrative of the Literature and History of England in the XIIIth Century; and more especially of the Condition and Manners of the different Classes of Society, by T. WRIGHT, M.A., F.S.A., &c. 8vo. cloth, only 250 printed, 7s 6d

Philological Proofs of the original Unity and recent Origin of the Human Race, derived from a Comparison of the Languages of Asia, Europe, Africa, and America, by A. J. JOHNES, 8vo. cloth, reduced from 12s 6d to 6s

Printed at the suggestion of Dr. Pritchard, to whose works it will be found a useful supplement.

Early Mysteries, and other Latin Poems of the XIIth and XIIIth centuries, edited from original MSS. in the British Museum, and the Libraries of Oxford, Cambridge, Paris, and Vienna, by THOS. WRIGHT, M.A., F.S.A., 8vo. bds. 4s 6d

“Besides the curious specimens of the dramatic style of Middle-Age Latinity, Mr. Wright has given two compositions in the Narrative Elegiac Verse (a favourite measure at that period), in the Comœdia Babionis and the Geta of Vitalis Blesensis, which form a link of connexion between the Classical and Middle-age Literature; some remarkable Satirical Rhymes on the people of Norfolk, written by a Monk of Peterborough, and answered in the same style by John of St. Omer; and lastly, some sprightly and often graceful songs, from a MS. in the Arundel Collection, which afford a very favourable idea of the Lyric Poetry of our clerical forefathers.”—Gentleman's Mag.

An Essay on the Origin, Progress, and Decline of Rhyming Latin Verse, with many specimens, by Sir ALEX. CROKE, post 8vo. cloth, 7s 6d—reduced to 3s

“This is a clever and interesting little volume on an attractive subject, the leisure work of a scholar and man of taste.”—British Critic.

On the Origin and Formation of the Romance Languages; containing an examination of M. Raynouard's Theory on the Relation of the Italian, Spanish, Provençal, and French, to the Latin, by GEO. CORNEWALL LEWIS, 8vo. cloth, 12s—reduced to 7s 6d

Essays on the Literature, Popular Superstitions, and History of England in the MIDDLE AGES, by THOMAS WRIGHT, M.A., F.S.A., 2 stout vols. post 8vo. elegantly printed, cloth, 16s

Contents:—Essay I. Anglo-Saxon Poetry. II. Anglo-Norman Poetry. III. Chansons de Geste, or Historical Romances of the Middle Ages. IV. On Proverbs and Popular Sayings. V. On the Anglo-Latin Poets of the Twelfth Century. VI. Abelard and the Scholastic Philosophy. VII. On Dr. Grimm's German Mythology. VIII. On the National Fairy Mythology of England. IX. On the Popular Superstitions of Modern Greece, and their connection with the English. X. On Friar Rush, and the Frolicsome Elves. XI. On Dunlop's History of Fiction. XII. On the History and Transmission of Popular Stories. XIII. On the Poetry of History. XIV. Adventures of Hereward the Saxon. XV. The Story of Eustace the Monk. XVI. The History of Fulke Fitzwarine. XVII. On the Popular Cycle of Robin-Hood Ballads. XVIII. On the Conquest of Ireland by the Anglo-Normans. XIX. On Old English Political Songs. XX. On the Scottish Poet Dunbar.

The Early History of Freemasonry in England, Illustrated by an English Poem of the XIVth Century, with Notes, by J. O. HALLIWELL, post 8vo. SECOND EDITION, with a facsimile of the original MS. in the British Museum, cloth, 2s 6d

"The interest which the curious poem of which this publication is chiefly composed has excited, is proved by the fact of its having been translated into German, and of it having reached a second edition, which is not common with such publications. Mr. Halliwell has carefully revised the new edition, and increased its utility by the addition of a complete and correct glossary."—Literary Gazette.

Torrent of Portugal; an English Metrical Romance, now first published, from an unique MS. of the XVth century, preserved in the Chetham Library at Manchester, edited by J. O. HALLIWELL, &c. post 8vo. cloth, uniform with Ritson, Weber, and Ellis's publications, 5s

"This is a valuable and interesting addition to our list of early English metrical romances, and an indispensable companion to the collections of Ritson, Weber, and Ellis."—Literary Gazette.

"A literary curiosity, and one both welcome and serviceable to the lover of black-letter lore. Though the obsolescence of the style may occasion sad stumbling to a modern reader, yet the class to which it rightly belongs will value it accordingly; both because it is curious in its details, and possesses philological importance. To the general reader it presents one feature, viz. the reference to Wayland Smith, whom Sir W. Scott has invested with so much interest."—Metropolitan Magazine.

The Harrowing of Hell, a Miracle Play, written in the Reign of Edward II., now first published from the Original in the British Museum, with a Modern Reading, Introduction, and Notes, by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, Esq. F.R.S., F.S.A., &c. 8vo. sewed, 2s

This curious piece is supposed to be the earliest specimen of dramatic composition in the English Language; vide Hallam's Literature of Europe, Vol. I.; Strutt's Manners and Customs, Vol. II.; Warton's English Poetry; Sharon Turner's England; Collier's History of English Dramatic Poetry, Vol. II. p. 213. All these writers refer to the Manuscript.

Nugæ Poeticæ; Select Pieces of Old English

Popular Poetry, illustrating the Manners and Arts of the XVth Century, edited by J. O. HALLIWELL, post 8vo. only 100 copies printed, cloth, 5s

Contents:—Colyn Blowbol's Testament; the Debate of the Carpenter's Tools; the Merchant and his Son; the Maid and the Magpie; Elegy on Love, Henry VIIIth's Fool; Romance of Robert of Sicily, and five other curious pieces of the same kind.

Reliques of Irish Jacobite Poetry, with Interlinear

Translations, and Biographical Sketches of the Authors, and Notes by J. DALY, also English Metrical Versions by E. WALSH, 8vo. parts I and 2, (all yet published,) 2s

Rara Mathematica ; or a Collection of Treatises on the Mathematics and Subjects connected with them, from ancient inedited MSS. by J. O. HALLIWELL, 8vo. SECOND EDITION, cloth, 3s 6d

Contents: Johannis de Sacro-Bosco Tractatus de Arte Numerandi; Method used in England in the Fifteenth Century for taking the Altitude of a Steeple; Treatise on the Numeration of Algorism; Treatise on Glasses for Optical Purposes, by W. Bourne; Johannis Robyns de Cometis Commentaria; Two Tables showing the time of High Water at London Bridge, and the Duration of Moonlight, from a MS. of the Thirteenth Century; on the Mensuration of Heights and Distances; Alexandri de Villa Dei Carmen de Algorismo; Preface to a Calendar or Almanack for 1430; Johannis Norfolk in Artem progressionis summula; Notes on Early Almanacs, by the Editor, &c. &c.

Popular Errors in English Grammar, particularly in Pronunciation, familiarly pointed out, by GEORGE JACKSON, 12mo. Third Edition, with a coloured frontispiece of the "Sedes Busbeiana," 6d Provincial Dialects of England.

Bibliographical List of all the Works which have been published towards illustrating the Provincial Dialects of England, by JOHN RUSSELL SMITH, post 8vo. 1s

"Very serviceable to such as prosecute the study of our provincial dialects, or are collecting works on that curious subject. We very cordially recommend it to notice."

Metropolitan.

An Historical Sketch of the Provincial Dialects of England, illustrated by numerous examples, Extracted from the "Dictionary of Archaic and Provincial Words," by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, 8vo. sewed, 2s

Poems of Rural Life, in the Dorset Dialect, with a Dissertation and Glossary, by WILLIAM BARNES, SECOND EDITION, ENLARGED AND CORRECTED, royal 12mo. cloth, 10s

A fine poetic feeling is displayed through the various pieces in this volume; according to some critics nothing has appeared equal to it since the time of Burns; the 'Gentleman's Magazine' for Dec, 1844, gave a review of the first edition some pages in length.

A Glossary of Provincial Words and Phrases in use in Wiltshire, showing their Derivation in numerous instances from the Language of the Anglo-Saxons, by JOHN YONGE AKERMAN, Esq. F.S.A., 12mo. cloth, 3s

The Vocabulary of East Anglia, an attempt to record the vulgar tongue of the twin sister Counties, Norfolk and Suffolk, as it existed in the last twenty years of the Eighteenth Century, and still exists; with proof of its antiquity from Etymology and Authority, by the Rev. R. FORBY, 2 vols. post 8vo. cloth, 12s (original price £1. 1s)

Westmoreland and Cumberland Dialects, Dialogues, Poems, Songs, and Ballads, by various Writers, in the Westmoreland and Cumberland Dialects, now first collected, to which is added, a Copious Glossary of Words peculiar to those Counties, post 8vo. pp. 408, cloth, 9s

This collection comprises, in the Westmoreland Dialect, Mrs. Ann Wheeler's Four Familiar Dialogues, with Poems, &c.; and in the Cumberland Dialect, I. Poems and Pastorals by the Rev. Josiah Relf; II. Pastorals, &c., by Ewan Clark; III. Letters from Dublin by a young Borrowdale Shepherd, by Isaac Riddison; IV. Poems by John Stag; V. Poems by Mark Lonsdale; VI. Ballads and Songs by Robert Anderson, the Cumbrian Bard (including some now first printed); VII. Songs by Miss Blamire and Miss Gilpin; VIII. Songs by John Rayson; IX. An Extensive Glossary of Westmoreland and Cumberland Words.

Specimens of Cornish Provincial Dialects, collected and arranged by Uncle Jan Treenoodle, with some Introductory Remarks and a Glossary by an Antiquarian Friend, also a Selection of Songs and other Pieces connected with Cornwall, post 8vo. with curious portrait of Dolly Pentreath, cloth, 4s

Exmoor Scolding and Courtship in the Propriety and Decency of Exmoor (Devonshire) Language, with Notes and a Glossary, post 8vo. 12th edition, 1s 6d

"A very rich bit of West of Englandism."—Metropolitan.

The Yorkshire Dialect, exemplified in various Dialogues, Tales, and Songs, applicable to the County, with a Glossary, post 8vo. 1s

"A shilling book worth its money; most of the pieces of composition are not only harmless, but good and pretty. The eclogue on the death of 'Awd Dai-y,' an outworn horse, is an outpouring of some of the best feelings of the rustic mind; and the addresses to riches and poverty have much of the freedom and spirit of Burns."

Gent.'s Magazine, May, 1841.

A Collection of Fugitive Pieces in the Dialect of Zummerzet, edited by J. O. HALLIWELL, post 8vo. only 50 printed, 2s

Dick and Sal, or Jack and Joan's Fair, a Doggrel Poem, in the Kentish Dialect, 3rd edition, 12mo. 6d

Jan Cladpole's Trip to 'Merriour in Search for Dollar Trees, and how he got rich enough to beg his way home! written in Sussex Doggerel, 12mo. 6d

John Noakes and Mary Styles, a Poem, exhibiting some of the most striking lingual localisms peculiar to Essex, with a Glossary, by CHARLES CLARK, Esq. of Great Totham Hall, Essex, post 8vo. cloth, 2s

"The poem possesses considerable humour."—Tait's Mag. "A very pleasant trifle." Lit. Gaz. "A very clever production."—Essex Lit. Journal. Full of rich humour"—Essex Mercury. "Very droll."—Metropolitan. "Exhibits the dialect of Essex perfectly."—Eclectic Review. "Full of quaint wit and humour."—Gent.'s Mag. May 1841. "A very clever and amusing piece of local description."—Archæologist.

Grose's (Francis, F.S.A.) Glossary of Provincial and Local Words used in England, with which is now first incorporated the SUPPLEMENT by SAMUEL PEGGE, F.S.A., post 8vo. elegantly printed, cloth, 4s 6d

The utility of a Provincial Glossary to all persons desirous of understanding our ancient Poets is so universally acknowledged, that to enter into a proof of it would be entirely a work of supererogation. Grose and Pegge are constantly referred to in Todd's "Johnson's Dictionary."

Archæology and Humismatics.

The Druidical Temples of the County of Wilts, by the Rev. E. DUKE, M.A., F.S.A., Member of the Archæological Institute, &c., Author of the "Hall of John Halle," and other works, 12mo. plates, cloth, 5s

"Mr. Duke has been long honourably known as a zealous cultivator of our local antiquities. His collections on this subject, and on the literature of Wiltshire, are nowhere surpassed; while his residence on the borders of the Plain, and within reach of our most interesting remains, has afforded scope to his meritorious exertions. The work before us is the fruit of long study and laborious investigation."—Salisbury Journal.

An Archæological Index to Remains of Antiquity of the Celtic, Romano-British and Anglo-Saxon Periods, by JOHN YONGE AKERMAN, F.S.A., in 1 vol. 8vo. illustrated with numerous engravings, comprising upward of five hundred objects, cloth, 15s

This work, though intended as an introduction and a guide to the study of our early antiquities, will it is hoped also prove of service, as a book of reference to the practised Archæologist. The contents are as follows:

PART I. CELTIC PERIOD.—Tumuli, or Barrows and Cairns.—Cromlechs.—Sepulchral Caves.—Rocking Stones.—Stone Circles, etc. etc.—Objects discovered in Celtic Sepulchres.—Urns.—Beads.—Weapons.—Implements, etc.

PART III. ANGLO-SAXON PERIOD.—Tumuli.—Detailed List of Objects discovered in Anglo-Saxon Barrows.—Urns.—Swords.—Spears.—Knives.—Umbones of Shields.—Buckles.—Fibulæ.—Bullæ.—Hair Pins.—Beads, etc. etc. etc.

THE ITINERARY OF ANTONINUS (as far as relates to Britain). The Geographical Tables of PROTEMY, the NOTITIA, and the ITINERARY of RICHARD of CIRENCESTER, together with a classified Index of the contents of the ARCHÆOLOGIA (Vols. i. to xxxi.) are given in an Appendix.

Vestiges of the Antiquities of Derbyshire, and the Sepulchral Usages of its Inhabitants, from the most remote ages to the Reformation, by THOMAS BATEMAN, Esq. of Yolgrave, 8vo. profusely illustrated with woodcuts, cloth, 15s

Notitia Britannia, or an Inquiry concerning the Localities, Habits, Condition, and Progressive Civilization of the Aborigines of Britain; to which is appended a brief Retrospect of the Results of their Intercourse with the Romans, by W. D. SAULL, F.S.A., F.G.S., &c. 8vo. engravings, 3s 6d

A Verbatim Report of the Proceedings at a Special General Meeting of the British Archæological Association, held at the Theatre of the Western Library Institution, 5th March, 1845, T. J. Pettigrew in the Chair. With an Introduction by THOMAS WRIGHT, 8vo. sewed, 1s 6d A succinct history of the division between the Archæological Association and Institute.

British Archæological Association.—A Report of the Proceedings and Excursions of the Members of the British Archæological Association, at the Canterbury Session, Sept. 1844, by A. J. DUNKIN, thick 8vo. with many engravings, cloth, £1. 1s

"The volume contains most of the papers entire that were read at the Meeting, and revised by the authors. It will become a scarce book as only 120 were printed; and it forms the first yearly volume of the Archæological Association, or the Archæological Institute."

Coins of the Romans relating to Britain, Described and Illustrated, by J. Y. AKERMAN, F.S.A., Secretary to the Numismatic Society, &c. Second edition, greatly enlarged, 8vo. with plates and woodcuts, 10s 6d

The "Prix de Numismatique" has just been awarded by the French Institute to the author for this work.

"Mr. Akerman's volume contains a notice of every known variety, with copious illustrations, and is published at very moderate price; it should be consulted, not merely for these particular coins, but also for facts most valuable to all who are interested in the Romano-British history."—Archæological Journal.

Ancient Coins of Cities and Princes, Geographically arranged and described, HISPANIA, GALLIA, BRITANNIA, by J. Y. AKERMAN, F.S.A., 8vo. with engravings of many hundred coins from actual examples, cloth, 18s delivered in the University of Oxford, by EDWARD CARDWELL, D.D., Principal of St. Alban's Hall, and Professor of Ancient History, 8vo. cloth, reduced from 8s 6d to 4s

A very interesting historical volume, and written in a pleasing and popular manner.

Essay on the Numismatic History of the Ancient Kingdom of the East Angles, by D. H. HAIGH, royal 8vo. 5 plates, containing numerous figures of coins, sewed, 6s

A Hand-Book of English Coins, from the Conquest to Victoria, by L. JEWITT, 12mo. 11 plates, cloth, 1s

Heraldry and Topography.

The Curiosities of Heraldry, with Illustrations from Old English Writers, by MARK ANTONY LOWER, Author of "Essays on English Surnames;" with Illuminated Title-page, and numerous engrav- ings from designs by the Author, 8vo. cloth, GULES, appropriately ornamented, or, 14s

"The present volume is truly a worthy sequel (to the 'SURNAME') in the same curious and antiquarian line, blending with remarkable facts and intelligence, such a fund of amusing anecdote and illustration, that the reader is almost surprised to find that he has learnt so much, whilst he appeared to be pursuing mere entertainment. The text is so pleasing that we scarcely dream of its sterling value; and it seems as if, in unison with the woodcuts, which so cleverly explain its points and adorn its various topics, the whole design were intended for a relaxation from study, rather than an ample exposition of an extraordinary and universal custom, which produced the most important effect upon the minds and habits of mankind."—Literary Gazette.

"Mr. Lower's work is both curious and instructive, while the manner of its treatment is so inviting and popular, that the subject to which it refers, which many have hitherto had too good reason to consider meagre and unprofitable, assumes, under the hands of the writer, the novelty of fiction with the importance of historical truth."—Athenæum.

English Surnames. A Series of Essays on Family Nomenclature, Historical, Etymological, and Humorous; with Chapters on Canting Arms, Rebuses, and the Roll of Battel Abbey, a List of Latinized Surnames, &c. by MARK ANTONY LOWER. The third edition, enlarged, 2 vols. post 8vo. with woodcuts, cloth, 12s

To those who are curious about their patronymic, it will be found a very instructive and amusing volume—mingling wit and pleasantry, with antiquarian research and historical interest.

An Index to the Pedigrees and Arms, contained in the Heralds' Visitations, in the British Museum, alphabetically arranged in Counties, 8vo. In the press.

An indispensable work to those engaged in Genealogical and Topographical pursuits, affording a ready clue to the Pedigrees and Arms of nearly 20,000 of the Gentry of England, their Residences, &c. (distinguishing the different families of the same name in any county), as recorded by the Heralds in their Visitations between the years 1528 to 1686.

History and Antiquities of the Ancient Port and Town of Rye in Sussex, compiled from Original Documents, by WILLIAM
HOLLOWAY, Esq., thick 8vo. ONLY 200 PRINTED, cloth, £1. 1s

Pedigrees of the Nobility and Gentry of Hertfordshire, by WILLIAM BERRY, late and for fifteen years Registering Clerk in the College of Arms, Author of the "Encyclopædia Heraldica," &c. &c. folio, (only 125 printed), bds. £3. 10s, reduced to £1. 5s

A Genealogical and Heraldic History of the Extinct and Dormant Baronetcies of England, Ireland and Scotland, by J. BURKE, Esq. medium 8vo. SECOND EDITION, 638 closely printed pages, in double columns with about 1000 arms engraved on wood, fine portrait of JAMES I., and illuminated title-page, extra cloth, £1. 8s reduced to 10s

This work, which has engaged the attention of the Authors for several years, comprises nearly a thousand families, many of them amongst the most ancient and eminent in the kingdom, each carried down to its representative or representatives still existing, with elaborate and minute details of the alliances, achievements, and fortunes, generation after generation, from the earliest to the latest period. The work is printed to correspond precisely with the last edition of Mr. Burke's Dictionary of the Existing Peerage and Baronetage: the armorial bearings are engraved in the best style, and are incorporated with the text as in that work.

History and Antiquities of Dartford in Kent, with Incidental Notices of Places in its Neighbourhood, by J. DUNKIN, Author of the "History of the Hundreds of Bullington and Ploughley in Oxfordshire;" "History of Bicester;" "History of Bromley," &c. 8vo. 17 plates, cloth. Only 150 printed, 21s

Historic Sites and other Remarkable and Interesting Places in the County of Suffolk, by JOHN WODDERSPOON, with Prefatory Verses by BERNARD BARTON, Esq., and a Poetical Epilogue by a "SUFFOLK VILLAGER." Improved edition, fine woodcuts, post 8vo. pp. 232, closely printed, and containing as much matter as many 12s volumes, cloth, ONLY 4s 6d

History of Banbury, in Oxfordshire, including Copious Historical and Antiquarian Notices of the Neighbourhood, by ALFRED BEESLEY, thick 8vo. 684 closely printed pages, with 60 woodcuts, engraved in the first style of art, by O. Jewitt, of Oxford, (pub. at £1. 5s) now reduced to 14s

"The neighbourhood of Banbury is equally rich in British, Roman, Saxon, Norman, and English Antiquities, of all which Mr. Beesley has given regularly cleared accounts. Banbury holds an important place in the history of the Parliamentary War of the Seventeenth Century, and was the scene of the great Battle of Edgehill, and of the important fight of Cropredy Bridge. Relating to the events of that period, the author has collected a great body of local information of the most interesting kind. By no means the least valuable part of Mr. Beesley's work, is his account of the numerous interesting early churches, which characterize the Banbury district."—The Archaeologist.

Odd Parts to complete copies, 1s. 6d. instead of 2s. 6d.

History and Antiquities of the Isle of Axholme, in Lincolnshire, by the Venerable ARCHDEACON STONEHOUSE, thick 4to. FINE PLATES, reduced from £3. 3s to 18s

A. RICHARDSON, royal 8vo. profusely illustrated with woodcuts, now complete in 8 vols. royal 8vo. cloth, 9s each, or the Divisions sold separately as follows:—

HISTORICAL DIVISION, 5 vols. LEGENDARY DIVISION, 3 vols.

The legendary portion will be found very interesting volumes by those who take no interest in the historical one.

A Critical Dissertation on Professor Willis's "Architectural History of Canterbury Cathedral," by C. SANDYS, of Canterbury, 8vo. 2s 6d

"Written in no quarrelsome or captious spirit: the highest compliment is paid to Professor Willis, where it is due. But the author has certainly made out a clear case, in some very important instances, of inaccuracies that have led the learned Professor into the construction of serious errors throughout. It may be considered as an indispensable companion to his volume, containing a great deal of extra information of a very curious kind."—Art-Union.

Bibliotheca Cantiana, a Bibliographical Account of what has been published on the History, Topography, Antiquities, Customs, and Family Genealogy of the COUNTY of KENT, with Biographical Notes, by JOHN RUSSELL SMITH, in a handsome 8vo. volume, pp. 370, with two plates of facsimiles of Autographs of 33 eminent Kentish, Writers, 14s reduced to 5s—large paper, 10s 6d

Popular Poetry, Stories, and Superstitions.

The Nursery Rhymes of England, collected chiefly from Oral Tradition, edited by J. O. HALLIWELL. The Fourth Edition, enlarged, with 38 Designs by W. B. SCOTT, Director of the School of Design, Newcastle-on-Tyne, 12mo. in very richly illuminated cloth, gilt leaves, 4s 6d

"Illustrations! And here they are; clever pictures, which the three-year olds understand before their A, B, C, and which the fifty-three-year olds like almost as well as the threes."—Literary Gazette.

"We are persuaded that the very rudest of these fables, tales, and rhymes, possess a strong imagination-nourishing power; and that in infancy and early childhood a sprinkling of ancient nursery lore is worth whole cartloads of the wise saws and modern instances which are now as duly and carefully concocted by experienced litterateurs, into instructive tales for the spelling public, as are works of entertainment for the reading public. The work is worthy of the attention of the popular antiquary."—Tail's Mag.

Wonderful Discovery of the Witchcrafts of Margaret and Philip Flower, daughters of Joan Flower, near Bever (Belvoir), executed at Lincoln for confessing themselves actors in the destruction of Lord Rosse, son of the Earl of Rutland, 1618, 8vo. 1s

One of the most extraordinary cases of Witchcraft on record.

Saint Patrick's Purgatory; an Essay on the Legends of Hell, Purgatory, and Paradise, current during the Middle Ages, by THOMAS WRIGHT, M.A., F.S.A., &c. post 8vo. cloth, 6s

"It must be observed that this is not a mere account of St. Patrick's Purgatory, but a complete history of the legends and superstitions relating to the subject, from the earliest times, rescued from old MSS. as well as from old printed books. Moreover, it embraces a singular chapter of literary history, omitted by Warton and all former writers with whom we are acquainted; and we think we may add, that it forms the best introduction to Dante that has yet been published."—Literary Gazette.

"This appears to be a curious and even amusing book on the singular subject of Purgatory, in which the idle and fearful dreams of superstition are shown to be first narrated as tales, and then applied as means of deducing the moral character of the age in which they prevailed."—Spectator.

Trial of the Witches at Bury St. Edmunds, before Sir M. HALE, 1664, with an Appendix by CHARLES CLARK, of Totham, Essex, 8vo. 1s

"The most perfect narrative of anything of this nature hitherto extant."—Preface.

Account of the Trial, Confession, and Condemnation of Six Witches at Maidstone, 1652; also the Trial and Execution of Three others at Faversham, 1645, 8vo. 1s

These Transactions are unnoticed by all Kentish historians.

An Essay on the Archæology of our Popular Phrases and Nursery Rhymes, by H. B. KER, 2 vols. 12mo. new cloth, 4s (pub. at 12s)

A work which has met with great abuse among the reviewers, but those who are fond of philological pursuits will read it now it is to be had at so very moderate a price, and it really contains a good deal of gossiping matter. The author's attempt is to explain every thing from the Dutch, which he believes was the same language as the Anglo-Saxon.

The Merry Tales of the Wise Men of Gotham, edited by JAMES ORCHARD HALLIWELL, Esq. F.S.A., post 8vo. 1s
